

CODE N GO

India is a place with a remarkable history. Akbar, the great emperor is one among many in contributing to it by showcasing the power of influence of his rule over the entire country. We all know about his nine gems or the Navratnas which he was very famous for. These nine gems were the ones with extraordinary qualities and were true geniuses in his court as Akbar had immense love for learning new things. Now that there is so much exposure to technology and programming in this era. So, on behalf of the king we cordially extend the invitation to all out there to put your programming skills to a test. The King decided not to keep it that easy. But let's reveal the context of the questions in our contest which will be based mainly on C language. Now this is easy, isn't it? So, this Pecfest let's add more gems to the honorary court.

EVENT DESCRIPTION

There will only be one round where, participants will be specifically tested on how skilled they are in C language. We will be having loads of code snippets categorized into three categories-
